HISTORY

THE NAVY AND NARRAGANSETT BAY

From its infancy during the Revolutionary War to its present day sophistication, the United States Navy has been an integral part of Narragansett Bay. As the first Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Navy, Rhode Islander Esek Hopkins used the bay as a haven for his small fleet between combat engagements. After the revolution, American men-of-war were common sights in the upper and lower bay, even though the Navy was small and often engaged in other conflicts on the high seas, such as the war with Tripoli, the War of 1812 and the Mexican War.

However, there were periods when naval activity in the bay area was at a standstill. Following official recognition of U.S. independence in the Treaty of Paris, there was a general demobilization of the armed forces; the Navy, in consequence, was virtually forgotten.

During the Civil War, the Navy came back to life in Newport. To avoid capture by the Confederates, the government transferred the faculty and students of the U.S. Naval Academy from Annapolis to Newport, where it operated for about four years. When it moved back to Annapolis, the Navy had become more organized and had acquired a degree of permanence.

The year 1869 marked the beginning of one of the most significant and best-known Navy landmarks in Narragansett Bay. In that year, the Secretary of the Navy authorized establishment of an experimental torpedo station at Goat Island. The station was responsible for developing torpedoes and conducting experimental work on other forms of naval ordnance. Its fame, importance and contributions made during its 83 years are legendary in the Rhode Island area. A major economic and military installation in Rhode Island from the day of its establishment, the Torpedo Station reached its peak importance in World War II when more than 13,000 employees worked around the clock to manufacture 80 percent of the torpedoes used by the United States during the war. The station was the largest single industry ever operated in Rhode Island. In 1951, it was replaced by the Naval Underwater Ordnance Station on the base, and Goat Island was transferred to the city of Newport. Redevelopment of the island included a causeway, luxury hotel and restaurant, marina, shopping facilities and apartments.

A Sailor learned most of his trade on the job until the last two decades of the 19th century. In the 1880s a new concept of shore-based training for officers and men was developed, and again the Navy turned to Narragansett Bay.

In 1881, the Navy acquired Coasters Harbor Island from the state, and on June 4, 1883, the island became home to the Navy's first recruit training station. On Oct. 6, 1884, the Naval War College was established on the island. By the turn of the century, classroom lecture notes of the college's second president, Alfred Thayer Mahan, had been published in book form, "The Influence of Sea Power Upon History," and the Naval War College had taken its place at the forefront of maritime strategic thought.

The advent of steam-powered ships made it necessary for the Navy to set up coaling stations for the fleet. Just before the turn of the century, one of the largest coaling stations in the country was established at Melville and it attracted many battleships and cruisers to East Passage anchorages to “coalship.”

By 1913, the Navy had acquired Government Landing in downtown Newport and had constructed the Naval Hospital on the mainland of Aquidneck Island adjacent to Coasters Harbor Island. This extension of the Navy was accelerated several years later when the United States entered World War I. As thousands of recruits flooded into Newport, the Navy acquired Coddington Point to accommodate overflow from the Training Station on Coasters Harbor Island. After the war, the Washington Disarmament Conference drastically reduced the Navy’s budget and curtailed expansion of naval facilities.

The threat of a major war against the Third Reich perked up naval activity once again in Narragansett Bay. In 1940, the base developed rapidly; Coddington Point was reactivated to house the many thousands of recruits being trained at Newport; Coddington Cove was acquired as a Supply Station; and new fuel facilities were built at Melville, along with a PT-Boat Training Center and a Net Depot. In November 1942, then-Lt. j.g. John F. Kennedy completed PT-Boat training at Melville. A memorial stone there marks the site of this former training area. The area went into a military growth boom with Anchorage housing being built; Sachuest Point was acquired; a harbor defense unit and communications station were constructed on Jamestown Island and Congress appropriated money to build a naval air station at Quonset Point on the west side of the bay. By the time the air station went into operation in 1941, plans had been completed for another facility adjacent to Quonset. In 1942, the Davisville Advanced Base Depot, predecessor to the former Davisville construction battalion, was established. Narragansett Bay became one of the Navy’s largest installations at the time in the brief period of three years.

After the war, many temporary units in the bay area began to deactivate. In 1946, the entire naval complex there was consolidated under a single military command, designated as U.S. Naval Base, Newport.

The Navy in Narragansett Bay adjusted to peacetime by increasing its activities in the fields of research, development, and training and preparing for modern warfare. Except for the brief period during the Korean War, when more than 25,000 Sailors trained at Newport, the Navy applied its efforts to these three major areas.

HISTORY

In 1951, the Torpedo Station was permanently disestablished and the manufacture of torpedoes was awarded to private industry. A new research and development facility, the Naval Underwater Ordnance Station, replaced the Torpedo Station. In February 1966, the Ordnance Station and the Naval Underwater Weapons Systems Engineering Center were combined to better coordinate all underwater programs pursued at the naval base. A merger in 1970 with another naval activity in New London, Connecticut, created what is now the Naval Undersea Warfare Center (NUWC).

In 1952, the Naval Training Station at Newport was disestablished by the transfer of recruit training to Bainbridge, Maryland. However, the Fleet Training Center and Naval School Command, established several years earlier at Newport, continued to provide specialized training to fleet personnel. The Officer Candidate School, which opened in 1951, became the Navy's primary source for junior Naval Reserve officers.

Piers 1 and 2 were built in 1955 and 1958, respectively, to accommodate ships of the Cruiser-Destroyer Force and Service Force. Naval supply and public works facilities were expanded at this time to support the fleet, and Headquarters, Commander Cruiser-Destroyer Force, Atlantic, was established at Newport in 1962. This command moved to Norfolk, Virginia, in July 1973.

Earlier in 1973, a Shore Establishment Realignment study directed the closing of the Quonset Point Naval Air Station; a drawdown of facilities at Davisville; the movement of the active fleet from Newport; and a cutback of personnel and activities. Five previously independent commands were disestablished and their personnel absorbed by a new activity — the Naval Education and Training Center (NETC).

A ceremony on Oct. 1, 1998, established Naval Station Newport as the primary host command, taking over base operating support responsibilities from the Naval Education and Training Center. The Commanding Officer, Naval Station Newport, reports directly to the Commander, Mid-Atlantic Region.

The base continues to evolve as the Navy seeks ways to improve training and increase efficiency. As a result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure Commission study, Naval Station Newport acquired additional units and personnel. In July 2008, the Naval Station Newport Vision 2035 Master Plan was published, outlining the future direction for the Navy's organization and infrastructure needs. Naval Station Newport is the Navy's world-class Center of Learning Excellence.

WELCOME

THE NAVY IN NEWPORT

Welcome to Naval Station Newport — home to 50 Navy, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Army Reserve, U.S. Coast Guard and National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration commands and activities. Newport is the Navy's premier site for training officers, officer candidates, senior enlisted personnel and midshipman candidates, as well as testing and evaluating advanced undersea warfare and development systems.

Naval Station Newport's mission is to fulfill the diverse requirements of its tenant commands by providing the facilities and infrastructure essential to their optimum performance.

Naval personnel assigned to Newport come from all parts of the United States and many other free nations. The naval installation mirrors a miniature America, with an international flavor. Both its military and civilian personnel are deeply involved in local community affairs and play active roles in local schools, service clubs, Sea Cadets, Boy Scouts and other popular youth activities.

The Navy's economic impact in Rhode Island is legendary. For many years, it was the state's largest single employer in terms of personnel and payroll, and is still the largest single employer in Newport County and third overall in the state.

Approximately 8,000 employees work at the 50 various commands and activities on Naval Station Newport with an additional 17,000 students annually passing through one of the many schools on base. Naval Station Newport has undergone significant growth as a result of the 2005

Base Realignment and Closure recommendations. NAVSTA became home to the Navy Supply Corps School, the Center for Service Support and the U.S. Marine Corps Aviation Logistics School, all formerly in Athens, Georgia.

Newport is also the home of the Navy's most prestigious educational institution — the Naval War College — the oldest such institution in continuous existence anywhere in the world. The college is organized to pursue and integrate both academic and research endeavors. Each year approximately 600 outstanding midcareer-level officers of the Navy, all other U.S. services, civilian federal agencies and international naval officers come here to pursue a rigorous 10-month course of postgraduate studies following in the footsteps of such notable War College graduates as Fleet Adms. Chester W. Nimitz, Ernest J. King and William "Bull" Halsey; Adm. Raymond Spruance; Ambassador Christopher R. Hill, assistant secretary of state for East Asian Affairs; Gen. Michael Hagee, former commandant, U.S. Marine Corps; Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard, first American in space; Gen. John M. Shalikashvili, former chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Adm. James G. Stavridis, current Dean of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University and former commander, U.S. European Command and NATO's 16th Supreme Allied Commander Europe.

More than half the graduates of the college's senior international course, the Naval Command College, have gone on to become flag or general officers, with many being chosen to head their respective services. The college's Center for Naval Warfare Studies leads the Navy in its maritime strategic thought. The Center's War Gaming facility conducts some 60 major war games annually in support of the college's research efforts, as well as fleet and Department of Defense (DOD) requirements.

Officer Training Command Newport (OTCN) is the largest officer accessions point in the Navy, with a mission to prepare Sailors and Marines through enduring professional and personal development to lead as officers in the fleet.

OTCN currently delivers five separate Officer Accession/Indoctrination programs and provides oversight to three of the Navy's technical training facilities.

Another important educational institution is the Surface Warfare Officers School Command, which trains surface warfare officers from the time they are commissioned until they have command at sea.

Newport also has the Naval Justice School, which trains personnel of the Defense Department in military law and related matters.

Another large and prestigious command is the Naval Undersea Warfare Center Division Newport, the Navy's principal research, development, test and evaluation center for submarine weapons systems whose research facilities stretch from Connecticut to the Bahamas.

Naval Health Clinic New England, Newport, provides general clinical outpatient services for authorized family members and cooperates with military and civilian authorities in matters of health, sanitation, disaster and other emergencies.

Other commands and activities in Newport include the Naval Leadership and Ethics Center; the Defense Institute of International Legal Studies; Explosive Ordnance Disposal Mobile Unit 12 Detachment, Newport; Naval Academy Preparatory School; the Naval Facilities Engineering Command Norfolk — Newport Detachment; Navy Band Northeast; the Senior Enlisted Academy; Coastal Riverine Squadron 8; and more.

Website: www.netc.navy.mil/centers/css
Facebook: www.facebook.com/CSSNewport

The Center for Service Support (CSS), headquartered in Fitzgerald Hall across from the Surface Warfare Officers School, is an institution of learning excellence, leading the professional development charge within the Navy's seven administrative, logistics and media ratings as well as the Supply Corps officer community. Established in 2003, CSS continues to grow and build upon the successes of the Navy's training philosophies that led to alternative training venues, such as the integrated learning environment, Navy Knowledge Online and blended training solutions (computer-based training mixed with instructor-led training). With more than 300 military, civilian and contracted instructors, curriculum developers and learning site managers around the fleet, CSS's mission is to provide valuable knowledge and expertise to Sailors serving in these customer-supported communities. CSS staff members do this by working hand-in-hand with fleet subject-matter experts to share and build upon lessons learned and best practices throughout the Navy. Training managers, specifically, work closely with fleet technical experts to provide skill and experience to ensure their products meet the needs of today's Sailors. The CSS domain's instructors and support staff at their seven learning sites graduate approximately 10,000 students per year.

DIILS is the lead defense security cooperation resource for professional legal education, training and rule of law programs for international military and related civilians.

Through mobile education teams, resident courses and other programs, DIILS develops and implements effective security cooperation programs to build partner legal capacity, including equitable, transparent and accountable security sectors, civilian control of the military, respect for human rights and good governance.

A critical mission goal is to build partners' security-sector legal capacity by sharing methods of addressing legal and military challenges, and lessons learned from contingency operations. Programs focus on contemporary legal challenges faced by partner military and civilian leaders, among them military justice, the legal aspects of combating terrorism and corruption, the defense institution-building aspects of Security Sector Reform, the law of armed conflict and human rights, and the day-to-day challenges of running professional militaries under civilian oversight.

DIILS remains committed to the highest level of professionalism by providing unrivaled subject-matter expertise in a manner that recognizes and respects cultural sensitivities and encourages diversity of opinion. Its uniformed instructors partner with leading government and civilian experts to deliver relevant and insightful programs in all areas that promote the rule of law.

DIILS is a component of the Defense Security Cooperation Agency and works with stakeholders to ensure their programs are current and consistent with U.S. strategic goals and policies. DIILS also works closely with the Geographic Combatant Commands to coordinate programs in their areas of focus.

The Marine Corps mission aboard Naval Station Newport has changed many times since 1894, when the Marines first established a permanent tenant command in Newport. Today, Marine Corps Detachment, Training Command has the primary mission of training Marine Aviation Supply officers and Marine Aviation Logistics Tactical Information System (ALTIS) specialists while providing administrative, logistical and headquarters support to more than 200 Marine instructors and students attached to naval training commands in the region.

In 2010, the Marine presence doubled with the relocation of the ALTIS from Athens, Georgia, to the renovated Beirut Memorial Hall (named in honor of the nine Marines from Rhode Island killed in the 1983 bombing) on Coddington Point. The Aviation Logistics Tactical Information Systems School conducts a 30-week accession-level course where enlisted Marines earn the military occupational specialty (MOS) of 6694. The course provides intensive training on hardware, software, networking, Internetworking and system administrator skills for the stand-alone information technology systems and assets critical to a Marine Aircraft Group in garrison and while deployed. The Aviation Supply School conducts a 17-week Aviation Supply Officer Basic Qualification Course to train Marine officers and warrant officers in the skills necessary to lead, manage, plan, direct and analyze the execution of aviation supply functions within the Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron (MALS) Supply Department. Students learn Navy-developed and sponsored aviation automated management systems, repairable and financial management programs, budgeting and accounting, inventory management and warehousing operations. The Aviation Supply School also conducts several one- to three-week continuing education courses for staff noncommissioned and commissioned officers working within Aviation Logistics.

Beirut Memorial Hall is the epicenter of support for Marine Corps Training Command instructors and students in six Marine MOS pipelines (4402, 4421, 4422, 6602, 6604 and 6694) as well as Marine drill instructors at Officer Training Command, Newport. In addition, the Marine Corps Detachment provides ancillary support for Marines in Newport attached to the Naval Academy Preparatory School, the Naval War College, Naval Justice School and the Defense International Institute of Legal Studies.

The 209-foot NOAA Ship Henry B. Bigelow supports NOAA's mission to protect, restore and manage the use of living marine, coastal and ocean resources through ecosystem-based management. Its primary objective is to study, monitor and collect data on a wide range of sea life and ocean conditions, primarily in U.S. waters from Maine to North Carolina. The region includes Georges Bank, one of the world's best known and most productive marine areas. Henry B. Bigelow's "quiet" hull is a design feature built to International Council for Exploration of the Seas (ICES) standards to minimize sound made by the ship underwater. This allows scientists to use hydro-acoustic methods for surveying marine life and significantly reduces changes in the natural behavior of animals caused by ship noise. The ship is named after Henry Bryant Bigelow (1879-1967), a Harvard-educated zoologist whose work helped lay the scholarly foundation for oceanography as a scientific discipline. He served on the Harvard faculty for 62 years, published more than 100 scientific papers (many of them seminal works), and was the first director of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution.

The Naval Academy Preparatory School is the Navy's fourth-oldest school; only the Naval Academy, Naval War College and Naval Postgraduate School are older.

The Naval Academy Preparatory School's mission is to enhance midshipman candidates' moral, mental and physical foundations to prepare them for success at the U.S. Naval Academy. The 10-month course of instruction at NAPS, from August through May, emphasizes preparation in English composition, mathematics, chemistry, physics and other academic subjects.

Demanding military, physical and character development programs complement the academic preparation to fully prepare students for the challenges at the Naval Academy. As part of the physical development program, NAPS has a varsity athletic program that competes against other preparatory schools, junior colleges and college junior varsity teams.

The Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), Northeast Field Office, Newport,

Rhode Island, is one of 15 NCIS geographical field offices throughout the world. NCIS is a civilian federal law enforcement agency, responsible for conducting felony-level criminal, counterintelligence, counterterrorism and security-related investigations to support the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps worldwide.

The NCIS Northeast Field Office, in concert with NCIS, mandates to prevent terrorism, protect USN technology and reduce crime. The Northeast Field Office is responsible for a geographic area encompassing Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the Canadian provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The NCIS mission in the Northeast is accomplished via 12 resident offices subordinate to the Northeast Field Office, Newport.

In addition to their investigative responsibilities, NCIS routinely conducts protective operations in support of high ranking DOD/DON officials and visiting foreign dignitaries, provides operational security threat assessment surveys and presents criminal awareness briefs to commands.

Since the Naval Justice School's (NJS) establishment in 1946 at Port Hueneme, California, NJS has annually trained thousands of DOD personnel in all aspects of military law. In 1950, NJS moved to its present location in Newport, Rhode Island. It currently provides accession and continuing legal training for all Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard lawyers and enlisted legal professionals, active and Reserve, as well as training for Sea Service commanders, legal officers, senior enlisted and others in the proper administration of military law. Staffed with officer and enlisted personnel from each of the Sea Services and supported by civilian administrative personnel, NJS currently offers more than 55 courses of instruction in Newport every year.

As the mission of NJS has expanded, additional offices have been opened to serve commands in different geographical areas. These offices include a detachment in San Diego, established in 1991 to conduct training on the West Coast and overseas Pacific; a branch at The Judge Advocate General's Legal Center and School (U.S. Army) in Charlottesville, Virginia, established in 1991; and a detachment at Naval Station Norfolk, Virginia, added in 1995 to provide waterfront legal training at the largest naval base in the world.

Naval Health Clinic New England (NHCNE), Newport, is a comprehensive health care facility at the south end of the naval complex. It provides a full range of outpatient services for naval shore activities and fleet units of the operating forces, family members of armed services personnel, and other authorized beneficiaries. NHCNE, Newport, has no emergency care capability. For emergency care, patients should call 911 for an ambulance or report to the nearest civilian hospital. The NAVSTA Newport Fire Department provides ambulance services on Naval Station property. Inpatient care is provided by Newport Hospital hospitalists and Navy physicians through a resource-sharing agreement with Newport Hospital, the local civilian hospital on Aquidneck Island. Clinical staff and services are located in a Comprehensive Health Care Facility, the Richard D. Dewert Medical Clinic, Building 23, which opened in 1997.

Personnel new to commands in the Narragansett Bay region should present themselves to NHCNE, Newport, within the first few days of arrival. Active duty members must enroll in TRICARE Prime. Enrollment is not automatic. Family members of active duty personnel may be enrolled in TRICARE Prime without an enrollment fee. Enroll online at www.tricare.mil or call 877-874-2273. Once enrollment is complete, personnel select a Primary Care Manager (PCM), to oversee their medical care.

Naval Undersea Warfare Center

A 10-week Basic Lawyer Course trains Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard lawyers in the fundamentals of military justice and relevant civil law, with particular focus on the development of trial advocacy skills, administrative law and investigations, legal assistance, basic operational law and the preparation of new military attorneys to act as counsel at courts-martial. Graduates often return to NJS from the field for additional career training as staff judge advocates and for specialized training in operational law, civil law and military justice.

The Naval Justice School and its detachments offer a number of courses to members who are not lawyers. A three-week Legal Officer Course trains junior officers and senior enlisted personnel in the basic administration of military justice and prepares them for duty as unit/battalion/squadron legal officers. A three-day Senior Officer Course, offered worldwide, provides commanding and executive officers with training on the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) and other matters relating to their legal responsibilities. A three-day Senior Enlisted Leadership Course provides legal training on topics commonly encountered by senior enlisted leaders.

NJS also provides extensive training for enlisted personnel performing legal duties. The 11-week Legalman Accession Course provides intensive paralegal training for Navy enlisted personnel selected for the legalman rating. In addition, all legalmen are now required to participate in the Legalman Paralegal Education Program (LPEP), leading to an Associate of Science in Paralegal Studies degree. The Marine Corps Legal Services Specialist Course, which runs for 11 weeks, is designed to give junior enlisted Marines the skills and training necessary to support legal offices throughout the Marine Corps. Select legal services specialists receive 13 weeks of training as court reporters. The school also holds a Coast Guard legal technician course to train selected personnel in the basic military justice and civil law issues encountered in the Coast Guard. For Navy and Marine Corps enlisted personnel who are not in a legal rating or MOS, the school provides a two-week Legal Clerk Course on preparing report chits, service record entries and other administrative matters relating to minor disciplinary infractions. In addition, NJS provides continuing legal training to enlisted legal professionals including courses in legal research and writing, ethics, leadership and professional development.

NJS provides ongoing training to the Navy and Marine Corps Reserve component officers and enlisted legal professionals with the support of NJS Reserve Unit 101 and its USMC Individual Mobilization Activity Detachment. This vital training includes annual Reserve legal update symposia, Reserve refresher courses in command services and legal assistance and focused enlisted paralegal training.

Finally, the school provides extensive training for commands in the local area including regular lectures at the Officer Training Command's Officer Development School, Senior Enlisted Academy, Surface Warfare Officers School, and the Naval Leadership and Ethics Center.

Founded in 2014, the Naval Leadership and Ethics Center (NLEC) is the catalyst for, and synchronizer of, developing ethical leaders throughout the Navy, from seaman recruit to captain, in support of the president of U.S. Naval War College. NLEC was established from the former Command Leadership School.

NLEC annually provides seminar-style instruction for more than 400 prospective commanding officers representing all designators. The two-week course focuses on reinforcing fundamental tenets of naval leadership and improving the decision-making foundation of officers about to assume their first command. A one-week seminar for prospective major commanders builds on these principles. A course for prospective executive officers addresses the application of leadership principles in carrying out the duties and responsibilities of the second-in-command. The CMC/COB course is a capstone program designed to further develop the unique perspective and special skills needed to serve as a vital member of the command's leadership triad. A one-week course is offered to spouses of prospective commanding officers and command master chiefs. These courses promote a team-building approach to command by recognizing, inspiring and educating the spouses of commanding officers and command master chiefs to realize the positive impact they can have on the morale and success of the command. The combined courses convene 14 times each year and students share instruction in topics that include physical training, lectures, case studies and subjects relevant to the Command Leadership Team and Command Support Team members.

The Naval Undersea Warfare Center (NUWC), established Jan. 2, 1992, is the Navy's full-spectrum research, development, test and evaluation, engineering and fleet support center for submarines, autonomous underwater systems and offensive and defensive weapons systems associated with undersea warfare. There are two major divisions of the Warfare Center – Division Newport and Division Keyport, in Keyport, Washington. The command employs approximately 4,600 civilian and military personnel worldwide and has a budget of nearly $2 billion. NUWC consists of more than 1,600 acres of government-owned or leased property, and 7.8 million square feet of building space. In addition to its two main sites at Newport and Keyport, NUWC includes subordinate command Naval Sea Logistics Center at Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, and several operating sites across North America, from Andros Island, Bahamas, to Dresden, New York, and from San Diego to Nanose Bay, British Columbia.

The Naval Undersea Warfare Center (NUWC) Division, Newport, is one of the two divisions of the Naval Undersea Warfare Center. The command was established on Jan. 2, 1992, by consolidation of the Naval Underwater Systems Center; Trident Command and Control Systems Maintenance Activity, Newport; and Naval Sea Combat Systems Engineering Station, Norfolk, Virginia.

NUWC Division Newport detachments include the Atlantic Undersea Test and Evaluation Center (AUTEC) facilities at Andros Island, Bahamas, and West Palm Beach, Florida. Remote test facilities are at Dresden, New York; Leesburg, Florida; and East Lyme, Connecticut.

In carrying out its mission, Naval Undersea Warfare Center Division, Newport provides research, development, test and evaluation, engineering, analysis and assessment, and fleet support capabilities for submarines, autonomous underwater systems and offensive and defensive undersea weapon systems, and stewards existing and emerging technologies in support of undersea warfare.

NUWC Division Newport is responsible, start to finish, for all aspects of systems under its charter, and is engaged in efforts ranging from participation in fundamental research to the support of evolving operational capabilities in the U.S. Navy fleet. The major thrust of NUWC Division Newport's activities is applied research and system development.

The division had a funded program of approximately $961 million in 2015, employing more than 2,960 civilian and military personnel and nearly 2,392 contracted work years.

NUWC Newport has an uninterrupted lineage dating back to 1869 and the establishment of the Naval Torpedo Station on Goat Island, Newport the Navy's earliest dedicated research facility. Today, the command is a world-recognized leader for research in submarine combat control and acoustics systems, imaging and communications systems, submarine weapon and launcher systems, submarine and surface ship sonar systems, undersea ranges and test programs.

Established in 1884, U.S. Naval War College (NWC) is the oldest institution of its kind in the world. More than 50,000 students have graduated since its first class of nine students in 1885, and about 300 of today's active-duty admirals and generals and senior executive service leaders are alumni.

Navy Department General Order No. 325, dated Oct. 6, 1884, stated in part, "A college is hereby established for an advanced course of professional study for naval officers ..." In a matter of months after the order was released, NWC's founding president, Commodore Stephen B. Luce, welcomed the first class of nine students.

From this humble beginning the college has grown and transformed into the nation's premier professional military education institution, now educating more than 40,000 students annually with resident and nonresident curricula tailored to the educational needs of Sailors from the ranks of E-1 to O-8.

As a fully accredited graduate institution, students completing the rigorous College of Naval Warfare and College of Naval Command and Staff resident curricula earn a Master of Arts degree and earn joint professional military education credit. Reflecting the college's Navy-wide reach, Fleet Seminar students enrolled on a network of 20 satellite campuses across the country can earn the M.A. degree as well. The college also has a robust international engagement mission with approximately 100 international officers graduating yearly.

The college's Professional Military Education (PME) programs prepare leaders for the challenges of operational and/or strategic level leadership as decision-makers and problem-solvers over the remainder of their careers. Approximately 400 students graduate from the Maritime Staff Operators Course and nearly 80 U.S. and international flag and general officers graduate from the Flag Course each year.

Just as NWC's educational programs have expanded in depth and reach, so have the research and analysis efforts conducted by NWC's Center for Naval Warfare Studies. Through war games, conferences, workshops and publications, NWC's research arm provides direct curriculum support to educational programs, and focused task-driven analysis for fleet customers and government agencies across the national security spectrum.

NWC's missions today are to educate and develop leaders; support defining the future Navy and associated roles and missions; support combat readiness; and strengthen global maritime partnerships.

The Naval War College has often been called the Navy's "home of thought," and as such, it constitutes a unique national asset unmatched anywhere else in the world. Through education, research, gaming and training, the college helps shape and support the intellectual leaders of tomorrow's Navy and her joint and combined service partners.

Established in 1974, Navy Band Northeast is based on board NAVSTA Newport and is one of 11 official U.S. Navy bands worldwide, providing musical support for military ceremonies, recruiting, morale and retention programs, and community relations. Under the direction of Lt. Gregory Fritz, this group of 35 professional Navy musicians supports more than 300 engagements annually throughout an 11-state area of responsibility, performing regularly for high-ranking military and civilian dignitaries, Navy recruiting, public outreach and awareness efforts, and partnership in education programs throughout the Northeast United States.

The primary components of Navy Band Northeast: Marching and Ceremonial Bands; Navy Band Northeast Pops Ensemble; popular music group, Rhode Island Sound; brass quintet, Top Brass and woodwind trio, Crosswinds. Other units consist of various smaller protocol ensembles: solo pianist; solo guitarist; jazz combo, solo vocalist and solo guitarist. All ensembles perform a wide range of music from patriotic, classical, contemporary, big band swing, country, and the latest top-40 hits.

The history of the Navy Supply Corps dates back to 1795 when President George Washington appointed Tench Francis as the first purveyor of public supplies; however, it was not until 1921 that the first Supply Corps School opened in Washington, D.C. In 1924, the school was disestablished but then reopened in 1934 as the Naval Finance and Supply School in Philadelphia. The school then merged with the Supply Corps Reserve Officer School in 1941. In 1945, the school was moved to Bayonne, New Jersey, where it operated until 1954, then relocated to Athens, Georgia, where it remained until December 2010.

The Navy Supply Corps School officially opened its doors in January 2011 at its current location in Newport. The building is named after Vice Adm. Kenneth R. Wheeler, the 31st Chief of Supply Corps and former World War II prisoner of war. His distinction in many crucial roles earned him a third star in January 1973, at which time he was designated vice chief of naval material, becoming the principal adviser to the legendary Adm. Isaac Kidd Jr., and exercising authority over six deputy chiefs and six systems commanders. Wheeler retired in September 1974 after 35 years of service.

The Wheeler Center is a 58,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art facility with 11 electronic classrooms, two video teletraining rooms, a multipurpose room that can be separated into three classrooms and nine breakout discussion rooms. Additionally, there is a mock ship's store, barbershop, shipboard galley, storeroom, laundry and a Navy Cash laboratory used to introduce the students to what they might expect during their first tour as division officers afloat.

The mission of the Navy Supply Corps School is to develop Navy Supply Corps officers and other logistics professionals through integrated education and training while building their personal, professional and leadership competencies to meet current and future global defense challenges. As the initial training site for new Supply Corps officers, the Basic Qualification Course/Basic Qualification Course Navy Reserves teaches the fundamentals of supply and logistics. The curriculum includes training in supply management, food service, retail operations, disbursing, and leadership and management. Officers returning to the fleet to take charge of an afloat Supply Department attend the Supply Officer Department Head Course or Senior Supply Officer Department Head Courses to review supply fundamentals.

Other courses include: Joint Aviation Supply and Maintenance Material Management, Introduction to Expeditionary Logistics, Transportation of Hazardous Material, Relational Supply Force Level Course and Reserve Supply Management Advanced Refresher Training. The school also partners with international military and civilian management programs to offer the International Officer Supply Basic Course, International Logistics Executive Advanced Development and Advanced Management Program.

The Navy Supply Corps School trains more than 2,400 students every year. The training is delivered in-resident and through distance learning via a mobile training team or Video Tele-Training.

Officer Training Command Newport (OTCN) was established as a separate command from NAVSTA Newport on Oct. 1, 1998. OTCN's mission is to develop civilians, enlisted and newly commissioned officers morally, mentally and physically, and imbue them with the highest ideals of honor, courage and commitment to prepare graduates for service in the fleet as naval officers. OTCN currently delivers five separate Officer Accession/Indoctrination programs and manages three Navy Technical Training Facilities.

Officer Candidate School

Officer Candidate School (OCS) is a 12-week course designed to give officer candidates desiring a commission in the Unrestricted Line, Restricted Line or Staff Corps (Supply Corps and Civil Engineering Corps only) a working knowledge of the Navy and Marine Corps (afloat and ashore), and to prepare them to assume the responsibilities of naval officers upon graduation. OCS is a mentally demanding and physically challenging program. Academic subjects include engineering, military indoctrination, naval history, navigation, seamanship, damage control, naval leadership, administration, military law, naval warfare and several special emphasis programs. Military training includes rapid memorization of general military knowledge, personnel inspections and close-order drill. The rigorous physical training (PT) program consists of running, augmented by calisthenics, strength training and swimming, and begins almost immediately upon arrival.

Seaman-to-Admiral 21 (STA-21)

The STA-21 program provides an opportunity for select enlisted men and women to become commissioned officers. At OTCN, STA-21 participants complete a nine-week course called Naval Science Institute (NSI). NSI provides Sailors instruction in the fundamental Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) core courses: Introduction to Naval Science, Sea Power, Navigation I/II, Engineering and Weapons. Following successful completion of NSI, these Sailors will enroll in an NROTC-affiliated college or university where they must complete a college degree within three years.

OTCN

Sailors and Marines from OTCN support a local civic cause

Officer Development School (ODS)

ODS is a five-week program designed to introduce newly commissioned Nuclear Power Instructor/Engineers, Medical Corps, Nurse Corps, Medical Service Corps, Judge Advocate General Corps and Dental Corps officers to their new responsibilities as naval officers. The curriculum includes courses covering naval indoctrination, military law, naval correspondence and administration, career development, physical fitness, drill and apprentice-level leadership skills and fulfilling the requirement for the Division Officer Capstone Course.

Limited Duty Officers/Chief Warrant Officers (LDO/CWO) School

LDO/CWO School is a four-week course designed to help new LDO/CWO transition from their previous enlisted ranks to their position as naval officers. The curriculum includes courses covering navigation and seamanship, military law, naval correspondence and administration, career development, critical thinking and division officer leadership.

Direct Commission Officer (DCO) Indoctrination Course

The DCO Indoctrination Course is a two-week course designed to introduce newly commissioned Navy Reserve officers to their responsibilities as naval officers. The course is intense and facilitates the new officers' introduction to military structure, the rich history of Navy traditions and customs, the military legal system and military etiquette. This course is completed by new Reserve officers during their two-week annual training (AT).

Technical Training Facilities

There are three technical training facilities run by OTCN. The Wet Trainer, better known as the "Buttercup," is used to teach damage control methods on a sinking vessel; the Fire Fighting School teaches firefighting skills to OTCN students as well as to fleet and U.S. Coast Guard personnel; and the

"Michael P. Murphy" Combat Training Pool is used to train and conduct required Navy swim qualifications for new officers.

In 1974, the Commander, Naval Legal Service Command established the first Naval Legal Service Office in Newport. In July 1993, Naval Legal Service Office Northeast Detachment Newport (NLSO NE DET NEWPORT) was set up as a subordinate activity of NLSO Northeast Groton, under the direction of a commanding officer. In July 1997, the office became Naval Legal Service Office North Central Branch Office Newport (NLSO NC BROFF NEWPORT), subordinate to NLSO North Central Detachment Groton, under the direction of both an officer in charge in Groton, Connecticut, and ultimately, Commanding Officer, Naval Legal Service Office North Central in Washington, D.C.

In October 2012, the Navy JAG Corps realigned and NLSO NC BROFF NEWPORT became Region Legal Service Office Mid-Atlantic Branch Office Newport (RLSO MIDLANT BROFF NEWPORT), a subordinate activity of RLSD Mid-Atlantic Detachment Groton, under the direction of both an officer in charge in Groton and ultimately, Commanding Officer, Region Legal Service Office Mid-Atlantic in Norfolk, Virginia. RLSD MIDLANT BROFF NEWPORT maintains two separate offices on board NAVSTA NEWPORT.

The Legal Assistance Office is in Building 360 and its one officer and one civilian worker provide legal assistance to active-duty personnel and their family members, retirees and their families, and deploying Reservists throughout greater New England. Legal assistance services include landlord-tenant, consumer protection, domestic relations and family law, immigration, and wills and estate planning. Co-located with the Legal Assistance Office is a remote office for Defense Service Office North, where Sailors, Coast Guardsmen and Marines facing nonjudicial punishment, administrative separation or court martial can remotely consult with attorneys in Groton or Washington, D.C.

Established in 1981, the Navy Senior Enlisted Academy (SEA) provides senior enlisted leaders with education and training in communication skills, leadership and management, national security affairs, Navy programs and physical fitness. The SEA is the Navy's only professional military education institute for its senior enlisted force.

In 1995, the Chief of Naval Operations established the requirement that all prospective Command Master Chiefs and Chiefs of the Boat successfully complete this course prior to reporting for their first assignment. Starting in January 2005, the SEA seated 65 students per class and convened for 6 weeks. The SEA completed another expansion to the Perry Hall Annex in 2006, increasing the student capacity to 112 per resident class.

In 2015 the Navy announced that for E8s selected during the MAR 2016 selection boards and beyond, graduation from a Service SEA will be a prerequisite for promotion to E9. That year the Navy SEA moved to a blended solution to afford all E-8s the opportunity to attend the Navy SEA before pinning on E-9.

The SEA offers two courses; one for active-duty military (including FTS Reservists) and another for Selected Reservists. The SEA's Active Duty course is comprised of nine weeks of distance learning (DL) followed by three weeks of in-residence education in Newport, Rhode Island. There is one week of admin/travel between the two phases, making the Active Duty course 13 weeks from start to finish. During the DL phase students read, write papers and interact with instructors and each other via the Blackboard Learning Management System. Students can expect eight to 10 hours of academic work each during the nine-week DL phase. Students must attend the DL phase and in-residence phase concurrently. The two phases cannot be split.

The eight-week Reservist course is comprised of six weeks of DL and two weeks of in-residence education. There is one week of admin/travel between the two phases, making the Reservist course nine weeks from start to finish. During the DL phase students read, write papers, and interact with instructors and each other via the Blackboard Learning Management System. Students can expect approximately eight to 10 hours of academic work each during the six-week DL phase. Again, the DL and in-residence phases must be completed concurrently and cannot be split up.

Together, the Navy SEA courses help to further develop senior enlisted leaders in their ability to provide ethical decision-support for leaders in naval, joint and multinational environments. By providing an understanding of national security, Joint Force operations, and leadership skills with a constant focus on flexibility and mission accomplishment, the Navy SEA prepares today's senior enlisted leaders for tomorrow's global challenges.

SURFACE WARFARE OFFICERS SCHOOL COMMAND (SWOSCOLCOM)

Building 446/1268

Phone: 401-841-4957/4958

Website: www.netc.navy.mil/centers/swos

Facebook: www.facebook.com/SWOSCOLCOM

The Surface Warfare Officers School Command is the “Center for Excellence” for Surface Warfare where officers and senior enlisted leaders sharpen their leadership, management and professional skills throughout their career. The SWOS mission is “to provide a continuum of professional education and training that prepares officers, enlisted engineers and quartermasters to serve at sea.” The guiding principles of SWOS professional development are to acquire perspective for sea duty assignments that culminate in Command at Sea. The hallmark of the Surface Warfare community is the regularity with which we receive professional military education at major milestones of a Surface Warfare Officer’s career. The purpose of this training continuum is to keep the leadership abreast of traditional roles and responsibilities but also to instruct us in the latest changes to the geopolitical and operational environment. What follows is a brief synopsis of the major training directorates at SWOSCOLCOM and within the larger SWOS domain.

We begin this journey with the introductory Basic and Advanced Division Officer Courses (BDOC/ADOC) that culminates in the creation of the Division Officer and Officer of the Deck. BDOC is an eight-week course of instruction designed to provide the foundational training for new Division Officers to succeed when they first step foot aboard ship. The course offers instruction in division-level administration, engineering, leadership and damage control. It also offers practical instruction in navigation, seamanship and shiphandling. ADOC differs slightly in that it reinforces the concepts of the Basic Course and couples it with fleet experience after some time aboard ship. More classroom and simulator time is spent developing the consummate professional Officer of the Deck (OOD) and prepares the Division Officer for advanced qualifications in naval warfare and engineering.

A recent development to the Division Officer course occurred with the introduction of the Littoral Combat Ship (LCS) that requires a unique training model. Legacy instruction at SWOS mimics the undergraduate and graduate academic worlds of lecture, self-study and testing. With the introduction of LCS to the fleet a new model of Train to Qualify (T2Q) emerged. This process utilizes off-hull training environments, simulation, to enhance knowledge, skills and abilities required to perform tasks within a specific watch station or position. Taking best practices from naval aviation and civilian maritime industry, T2Q capitalizes on delivery of individual ready-to-operate high-cost, high-risk systems with little margin for error such as the LCS. LCS simulators at SWOS replicate the bridge environment including precise placement of controls and seating. It teaches the student to handle the ship and to build muscle memory as the OOD of an LCS must be able to handle the ship without the backup of a large and often more qualified bridge team.

Officers selected for Department Head return to SWOS for the flagship course in maritime warfare hosted by the N73 Directorate. The Department Head course is also the most demanding and professionally rewarding course a Surface Warfare Officer receives throughout their career.

Surface Warfare Officers School Command

This 27-week course prepares Officers for duty as Engineering, Combat Systems, Weapons, Operations, and Deck Department Heads aboard all classes of Navy ships. Among the topics of instruction are Information Operations, Air and Missile Defense, Surface Warfare, Undersea Warfare, and Expeditionary Warfare. In addition to academic studies, students participate in Multi-Mission Tactical Trainers (MMTTs) where they demonstrate their proficiency as a Tactical Action Officer (TAO). There are two modules to successfully complete before matriculating, TAO and Operations, Readiness, Training and Engineering. The specifics of each student's follow-on assignment are discussed as a capstone to the event.

Following successful tours as a Department Head those selected for Early Command, Commander Command and Major Command return yet again for specialized courses of instruction through the N75 Command at Sea Training Directorate that prepares Prospective Commanding Officers and Prospective Executive Officers to successfully command surface ships. A part of their specialized training includes instruction in assessment, improvement and monitoring of ship material readiness through a dedicated Senior Officer Ship Material Readiness Course provided by the N76 Directorate.

SWOS has expanded its world-class professional military education to instruct our growing list of naval partners throughout the world. International SWOS (ISWOS) trains foreign naval surface warriors in all aspects of naval operations from damage control to coalition operations. The curriculum mimics the Division Officer and Department Head courses of instruction offered by the N72 Fleet Training and N73 Maritime Warfare Directorates. During their time at SWOS, the international students are immersed in American culture, tour historic sites and build relationships with their U.S. counterparts.

Surface Warfare Officers School Command sharpens the leadership, management and professional skills of surface warriors throughout their career by providing a continuum of military education and training so that they may serve at sea. We do this through traditional classroom-based instruction, practical exercises and simulation. There is constant revision and tailoring to meet the needs of the fleet, the geopolitical and operational environments. We have expanded this opportunity and extend it to our naval partners worldwide in the spirit of cooperation. Officers and senior enlisted who complete the courses of instruction are ready for today's challenges at sea.

The 443rd Civil Affairs Battalion, 353rd Civil Affairs Command, U.S. Army Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations Command (Airborne)

Phone: 401-341-2537

The U.S. Army Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations Command (Airborne) (USACAPOC[A]) mission is to organize, train, equip and resource Army Reserve Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations forces for worldwide support to regional combatant commanders and other agencies, as directed.

Its vision is to provide the nation with an expeditionary, campaign-quality civil affairs and military information support operations force, fully mission-capable across the spectrum of military operations.

Civil affairs (CA) units help military commanders by working with civil authorities and civilian populations in the commander's area of operations to lessen the impact of military operations on them during peace, contingency operations and declared war. CA forces support activities of conventional commanders, and do so in the Reserve CA as a unique blend of Army, Navy and Air Force personnel.

Ninety-four percent of the Department of Defense's CA forces are found in the Reserve CA ranks — four civil affairs commands, seven subordinate brigades and 28 battalions. They are a prime source of skills necessary to help a nation rebuild following conflict and improve services for its people in times of peace.

CA units include Soldiers with training and experience in public administration, public safety and health, legal systems, labor management, public welfare, finance and education, civil defense, public works and utilities, public communications and transportation, logistics, food and agricultural services, economics, property control, cultural affairs, civil information and management of dislocated persons.

CA specialists can quickly and systematically identify critical needs of local citizens in war or disaster. They can also locate civil resources to support military operations, help minimize civilian interference, support national assistance activities, plan and carry out noncombatant evacuation, support counterdrug operations and establish and maintain liaisons or dialogue with civilian aid agencies and other nongovernmental organizations.

UNITED STATES COAST GUARD
USCGC Ida Lewis (WLM 551)

Pier 2 Road

Naval Station Newport

Phone: 401-841-6948

Website: www.uscg.mil/d1/

The Coast Guard Cutter Ida Lewis is a 175-foot "Keeper Class" coastal buoy tender. She was commissioned April 12, 1997, and is the first of 14 ships of her class named in honor of famous lighthouse keepers from the U.S. Lighthouse Service, which became part of the Coast Guard in 1939. Ida Lewis was named for Idawalley Zorada Lewis, one of a number of women lighthouse keepers in the Lighthouse Service. Her father, Capt. Hosea Lewis, was appointed the keeper of Lime Rock Light, near Newport, Rhode Island. After Capt. Lewis had a stroke, responsibilities fell to Ida and her mother. Ida made her first rescue at the age of 16, and went on to carry out as many as 24 documented rescues. After her death, the Lime Rock Lighthouse was renamed Ida Lewis Lighthouse, the only such honor ever given to a lighthouse keeper.

USCGC Juniper (WLB 201)

Pier 2 Road

Phone: 401-841-6953

Website: www.uscg.mil/d1/cgcjuniper/

The Coast Guard Cutter Juniper (WLB 201) is the first of the Coast Guard's 225-foot sea-going buoy tenders. Juniper's missions include servicing aids to navigation, law enforcement, search and rescue, domestic icebreaking and marine environmental pollution response. Juniper operates under the First Coast Guard District in Boston. Her primary area of responsibility is from Cape Cod, Massachusetts, to Sandy Hook, New Jersey. Juniper participated in the search and rescue efforts after the TWA Flight 800 and Egypt Air 990 catastrophes as well as in anti-terrorist and force protection operations in New York after the 9/11 World Trade Center attacks. Juniper can also skim and recover spilled oil, as demonstrated by her recent 145-day deployment in response to the Deepwater Horizon oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico, where she recovered 145,000 gallons of oil.

The Tiger Shark's mission is search and rescue, law enforcement (mainly fisheries and recreational boating safety) and ports, waterways and coastal security. The Tiger Shark relocated from berthing in Newport in early 2012 and joins Juniper, Ida Lewis and Willow in calling NAVSTA Newport home.

USCGC Willow (WLB 202)

Pier 2 Road

Naval Station Newport

Phone: 401-841-2944

Website: www.uscg.mil/d1/cgcwillow/

Commissioned in 1997, U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Willow is equipped with an advanced integrated command and control system, and with her 45-person crew, has the versatility to perform a variety of missions. Homeported at Naval Station Newport's Pier 2 since commissioning, Willow is primarily oriented toward supporting the Coast Guard's maritime safety mission, and is responsible for maintaining 134 floating aids to navigation from Rhode Island Sound to the Canadian border, including the hazardous seacoasts of New Hampshire and Maine. A multimission asset, Willow regularly enforces Living Marine Resource laws and regulations offshore to sustain New England's delicate but economically crucial fish stocks. During winter months, the ship provides ice-breaking services on the Hudson River, Buzzards Bay and other susceptible waterways, ensuring the continued flow of heating oil and other commercial goods. Specially equipped with a Shipboard Oil Recovery System, Willow can respond to petroleum spills, contributing to the Coast Guard's pollution response mission. Its ability to carry out so many different missions makes Willow a significant asset in protecting New England's waterways and ensuring the safety of its mariners.

Naval War College Museum Blog:

<http://navalwarcollegemuseum.blogspot.com>

On Sept. 20, 1884, Rear Adm. Stephen B. Luce, USN, was relieved as Commander, North Atlantic Squadron and was rowed from the flagship USS Tennessee anchored off Newport to Coasters Harbor Island, 2 miles north of the center of Newport. Once on the island, as the Army and Navy Journal reported, Luce proceeded to a large stone building built in 1819, the former Newport Asylum for the Poor, climbed its rickety steps, and as he put his hand on the front door, solemnly declared to his few companions and the empty grounds, "Know all men by these presents, and in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, I christen this building the War College of the American Navy." Two weeks later, on Oct. 6, 1884, Secretary of the Navy William Chandler issued General Order 325, formally establishing the Naval War College.

Today, the "little poorhouse" is a well-preserved and stately structure, a National Historic Landmark and home to the Naval War College Museum. Named Founders Hall in honor of the founding fathers of the college, it is uniquely suited for its current purpose. In addition to being the original home of the oldest war college in the United States, it is where Capt. Alfred Thayer Mahan, USN, the college's president in 1886 through 1889 and 1892 through 1893, first delivered his lectures on sea power. These lectures, first published in 1890 as the epochal "The Influence of Sea Power upon History, 1660-1783," were the first in a series of Mahan's books that marked the beginning of modern naval strategic and historical studies. Today, the Naval War College Museum is one of 10 official U.S. Navy museums. It is operated under the Naval History and Heritage Command, Washington, D.C., in cooperation with the Naval War College.

Collection and Exhibit Themes

The museum's themes are the history of naval warfare, particularly as studied at the college, and the naval heritage of Narragansett Bay — a tale that begins with the nation's colonial roots. Its collection consists of items relating to these subjects that are perceived to be of value to scholarship, and these form the core for exhibits throughout the college and for educational outreach projects. Besides permanent exhibits about the college, the genesis of the Navy in the region and the evolution of permanent naval installations from the late 19th century to the present, the museum features short-term special exhibits relating to the college curriculum and to current naval-related topics. In general, the museum exhibits identify milestones in the evolutionary development of war at sea; explain the significance of the sea as a factor in the formulation and the attainment of national policy objectives; describe the character, educational philosophy and mission of the college; and chronicle the eventful relationship of the U.S. Navy with Narragansett Bay and its people.

Public access to the museum with a personal vehicle is through Gate 1 of U.S. Naval Station, Newport. For reservations, call 401-841-4052 at least five working days in advance. Reservations and two forms of government-issued identification are necessary to enter the Naval Station for those without Department of Defense identification. Foreign nationals require two weeks' advance notification. Visitors must stop at the Pass Office before proceeding to Gate 1.

Facilities for the disabled are available, as is a gift shop operated by the Naval War College Foundation, a 501(c)(3) charitable organization that supports the Museum as part of its many activities to buttress the Naval War College. Further information about the museum's exhibits, special events and its naval history book lecture series may be found on the museum's website at www.usnwc.edu/museum, on its Facebook page, and on the Naval War College Museum blog at <http://navalwarcollegemuseum.blogspot.com>.

The Personal Property Processing Office (PPPO), a satellite office of Joint Personal Property Shipping Office (JPPSO), Detachment 2, is responsible for providing information about allowable entitlements on shipment, storage and delivery of household goods, unaccompanied baggage, mobile homes and privately owned vehicles to all military and civilian personnel.

Incoming personnel to the Newport area can contact the PPPO to update their contact phone numbers, email addresses and delivery address, if available, or they can call the Customer Service Department at JPPSO-NE. Additionally, personnel moving within the Defense Personal Property Program (DP3) are reminded to access their DP3 account in order to keep their contact address, phone numbers and email addresses up to date. Maintaining current contact information is critical throughout the entire move.

The status of a shipment also can be checked via JPPSO-NE's Interactive Voice Response telephone system 24/7 at 800-235-7776. Additionally, other valuable information such as tracking a POV shipment or locating a scale for a personally procured move (PPM) can be found on the DOD Household Goods Portal at www.move.mil. Personnel occupying government quarters are advised to review floor plans in advance and ship only those household goods that can be accommodated in the units. It is recommended that those items that cannot be placed within the unit be stored at the point of origin. Entitlements are outlined in Joint Federal Travel Regulations paragraphs U5222 and U5232D. Arrangements must be made at the time of outbound counseling. Permanent long-term storage is only authorized at Newport as an overflow to government quarters. Those living off base will be responsible for their own storage units and storage charges.

Claims

Be sure to submit the completed DD Form 1840 (AT/AFTER DELIVERY FORM) to the carrier within 75 days from the date of delivery. Those moving within the DP3 program must submit their form to their carrier online at www.move.mil within 75 days from the date of delivery.

The Public Affairs Office is the official contact for members of the public, media and state and local agencies interested in obtaining information about the installation. The office oversees publication of the official Naval Station Newport weekly newsletter and administers the installation Facebook page, Twitter account and website. The PAO actively coordinates programs aimed at fostering Navy-civic relations and improving the understanding of the community with respect to the Department of Defense, and the Navy in particular. The Newport NAVALOG, the Navy's oldest continuous publication, serves all area commands and activities. It is published every Friday and posted both online and on the official Facebook page under the guidance of the Public Affairs officer. The Public Affairs Office also oversees the Naval Station operational messages posted on line during any sort of foul weather or incident that would have an impact on operations.

Fax: 401-841-1853

The NAVSTA Newport Safety Office provides a full-service, comprehensive safety agenda consisting of 38 major occupational safety and health programs. The range of responsibility and support required is vast and covers diverse disciplines such as afloat, waterfront, shore, industrial, recreational, housing and retail.

Unlike any other Naval Station Newport department, the Safety Office is responsible for providing services to outlying naval activities in New York, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts.

The Safety Professionals utilize an effective, proactive hands-on approach that emphasizes finding solutions that help supervisors take immediate and lasting action to eliminate hazards and potential health and safety problems. This, coupled with a command structure that considers safety synonymous with mission, has resulted in an ongoing superlative safety record, and has fostered an environment for safe work, play and living for Sailors and civilian employees alike.

SCHOOL LIAISON OFFICER (SLO)

President John F. Kennedy

Child Development Center

1376 Bushnell St. (near NUWC)

Phone: 401-841-7126

Hours: 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, special hours by appointment

Do you have school-aged children? Then the School Liaison Officer (SLO) is looking for you!

The Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport installation School Liaison Officer (SLO) serves as the installation subject matter expert for youth education, transition, kindergarten through Grade 12 school years, and deployment issues. The SLO's role includes seven core duties which include:

- Communication (Installation/Community/School)
- School Transition Services
- Special Education System Navigation
- Deployment Support
- Partnerships in Education
- Home School Linkage and Support
- Post-Secondary Presentation

Hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30p.m. Monday through Thursday. Special hours are available by appointment. If you are a military family with school-age children, moving can be complicated by the "unknown factors" related to the schools in the area of your new duty station. In order to prepare for a smooth transition, it is essential that you plan ahead and gather the necessary information about the schools your children will be attending during the next academic year before you arrive at your new home.

Here at Naval Station Newport, Pamela Martin, NAVSTA School Liaison Officer (SLO), is available to help navigate the local educational system while PCSing, as well as helping prepare for your next move by putting you in contact with the SLO at your new duty station. Martin can be reached at 841-7126 or by email at pamela.martin@navy.mil. Her office is located at the John F. Kennedy Child Development Center in Building 1376 (1376 Bushnell St.) right outside gate 17. Registration information

Police Operations Officer: 401-841-2646

Assistance from the community plays a major role in helping the Naval Station's Security Department. Suspicious activity should be reported to the police dispatcher immediately, and emergencies via 911. Individuals are encouraged to report anything out of the ordinary and may remain anonymous. The Naval Station's police force is a full-service law enforcement agency that maintains close ties with local, state and federal law enforcement agencies. Federal police officers attend the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center and maintain 24-hour daily patrols of the installation, tenant commands and surrounding federal property. Police patrol officers enforce all laws and regulations, including United States Code, the UCMJ, assimilated Rhode Island law and applicable instructions. They ensure the integrity of installation access points, offer assistance to those in need, and proactively, serve to detect, deter and defend against terrorist activity. Detectives are on staff to investigate criminal activity. The coordinated efforts of all branches of the Security Department ensure protection and service to our community. The security director and operations officer are responsible for maintaining the quality, professionalism and training of personnel and provide a link from the public to the commanding officer, as well as gather data and identify trends of criminal and security concerns so station law enforcement and security resources are utilized to their maximum potential.

The U.S. Army Veterinary Clinic at Naval Station Newport, 1255 Whipple St. is located in the rear of the Leisure Bay Coffee Shoppe. Newport Naval Station Veterinary Treatment Facility (VTF) is professionally staffed by Army Veterinary Corps personnel with the primary mission of providing complete veterinary care for all government owned animals. Our staff understands how important your pet is to you and with that in mind, we also offer many types of routine care services for the pets of military families. For availability of services or to schedule an appointment please call us. All pets living on post must be registered with the VTF upon arrival. On-post housing may limit the number and breed of pets that can live in on-post housing. Contact on-post housing for more information. Due to our limited manpower and resources, most veterinary emergency cases are best served through a full-service civilian veterinary hospital. Newport county code §6.04.070 states that "the owner of any dog over the age of six months shall have such dog vaccinated against rabies..." Please check with your local county for compliance with registering your pets and other regulations.

NAVY HOUSING

There are 691 housing units at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport. Housing is in multiple housing complexes within a 7-mile radius of the base.

NAVSTA Newport housing is a privatized housing site partnered with Balfour Beatty Communities, which manages and maintains all family housing at NAVSTA Newport. Information about Balfour Beatty can be obtained by contacting them at 401-846-8877 or via www.navsta.newporthomes.com.

All active-duty military members (with or without family) transferring to the NAVSTA Newport area interested in moving into privatized housing should contact the Housing Service Center. To be placed on the waiting list for housing, service members must forward a completed DD Form 1746 (Application for Military Family Housing), Sex Offender Policy Acknowledgement & Disclosure form, a copy of their PCS orders and Dependency Verification (NAVCOMPT 1070/602 or DEERS form, if applicable) via email to: Newport_Housing@navy.mil; or fax it to: commercial 401-841-7138/DSN 841-7138; or mail it to: Housing Service Center, Naval Station Newport, 690 Peary St., Newport, RI 02841-1513. Names will be placed on the waiting list (if applicable) as of the date of detachment from the member's present permanent duty station, or the date of receipt, whichever is later.

Balfour Beatty Communities offers a furnished Single Sailor Program that offers furnished roommate homes for bachelor and geographical bachelor student and staff personnel at a per-person rental rate.

There are 325 student quarters and 426 staff quarters at NAVSTA Newport. Student quarters are designed for students attending Department Head Courses at the Surface Warfare Officers School Command and the Naval War College.

Pet Policy

Balfour Beatty Communities has a two-pet policy, to include dogs, cats, birds or fish tanks. Note: Several dog breeds or mixed breeds are not permitted. Please check directly with Balfour Beatty for a current restricted breed list. Exotic pets are also not permitted.

Utility Information

All quarters are equipped with ranges, refrigerators and washer/dryer hookups and are heated by gas-fired heating systems. The Navy has implemented the Resident Energy Conservation Program (RECP) for all utility costs, with the exception of telephone and cable television services, which are included in the rental fee. The RECP establishes like type groups of housing and measures the average usage for each group every month. A 10% buffer is then added above and below the average to create a Normal Usage Band. Residents using more than the Normal Usage band pay for the excess and those using less receive a rebate or credit. For more information, you can contact the Housing Service Center. For active-duty military with family, the maximum rental rate is equal to the member's local-with-dependent BAH. Note: Ask about any current rent specials. For members without family, the rental rate is set at a fair market rate that can be obtained by contacting the Housing Service Center.

Information on average waiting times, frequently asked questions, photos and floor plans of the housing is available at the Navy Housing Service Center site: www.cnmc.navy.mil/regions/cnma/installations/ns_newport/ffr/housing_and_lodging.html.

Note: Service members are required to contact the Housing Service Center within 10 days of their arrival to confirm their application or their name will be removed from the waiting list.

For further information, call 401-841-2232, DSN 841-2232 or toll free 800-217-0875.

PRIVATE HOUSING OFF-BASE

The NAVSTA Newport Housing Service Center (HSC) is ready to assist service members with finding off-base housing in the local community. Members are required to report to the Housing Service Center, Building 690, before committing to private housing off base. The HSC staff is available to review lease agreements as well as assist with information on security deposits, check-in/out inspections, military clauses, group sharing and more. Additionally, the HSC staff will help ensure that all personnel receive fair and equal opportunity for housing in the community.

The HSC utilizes www.HOMES.mil a DOD-sponsored program for all off-base referrals. This online database contains a large selection of unfurnished and furnished properties ranging in price from approximately $800 to $3,000 per month, plus utilities, depending on size, location and amenities. The properties listed in the database are within a one-hour commute of NAVSTA Newport and are easily accessible. Information on how to access this program can be obtained by contacting the HSC.

Due to Newport's reputation as a famous tourist area, short-term furnished rentals are expensive and scarce during the summer months.

NAVSTA Newport no longer operates a mobile home park. Additionally, community mobile home lots are extremely difficult to obtain within the commuting area.

Subsidized housing complexes are available within the commuting area. The HSC staff is available to assist you with your search for subsidized housing.

Naval Health Clinic New England (NHCNE), Newport, is a comprehensive health care facility at the south end of the naval complex. It provides a full range of outpatient services for naval shore activities and fleet units of the operating forces, family members of armed services personnel and other authorized beneficiaries. NHCNE, Newport, has no emergency care capability. For emergency care, patients should call 911 for an ambulance or report to the nearest civilian hospital. The NAVSTA Newport Fire Department provides ambulance services on Naval Station property. Inpatient care is provided by Newport Hospital hospitalists and Navy physicians through a resource-sharing agreement with Newport Hospital, the local civilian hospital on Aquidneck Island. Clinical staff and services are located in a Comprehensive Health Care Facility, the Richard D. Dewert Medical Clinic, Building 23, which opened in 1997.

Personnel new to commands in the Narragansett Bay region should present themselves to NHCNE, Newport, within the first few days of arrival. Active duty members must enroll in TRICARE Prime. Enrollment is not automatic. Family members of active duty personnel may be enrolled in TRICARE Prime without an enrollment fee. Enroll online at www.tricare.mil or call 877-874-2273. Once enrollment is complete, personnel select a PCM, to oversee their medical care.

All questions about services available and access may be directed to the Health Benefits Advisor.

Save a trip to your doctor at NHCNE — with email.

Have a non-urgent question for your doctor and unsure how to get it answered easily? Want a medication renewal and hoping to avoid a trip to the medical clinic? Now it's possible to use email to do all of this and more when you sign up for RelayHealth. It is free and secure. Please take a few moments to sign up at: www.relayhealth.com. Pre-teen and Teen Programs for children ages 9 and up are offered outside of normal business hours.

Hours:

- CDC: 6:15 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday
- Teen Center: 5:30 to 9 p.m. Friday (ages 9 through 18), closed Saturday through Thursday and federal holidays
- CDH Programs: Hours are set individually by providers.

All Child and Youth Programs offer full-time spaces. Hourly care is offered when space is available at a fee of $4 per hour.

Ages served:

- CDC: 6 weeks through 5 years old
- Child Development Home Programs: 6 weeks through 12 years old
- School-age Care: before- and after-school program for children 5 (attending kindergarten) through 12 years old

- Summer Camp: 5 through 12 years old (must have completed kindergarten)
- Teen Center: 9 through 18 years old

Child Development Center

The program is led by qualified professionals in Early Childhood Education whose major goal is to promote your child's growth and development in a nurturing environment through meaningful learning experiences. The curriculum is developmentally appropriate, keeping in mind the specific needs of each individual child. Activities are planned; however, these plans are flexible depending on the daily interests and needs of the children. Children are invited and encouraged to participate in individual and group activities designed to promote social, emotional, intellectual (cognitive) and physical development.

Caregivers administer the curriculum and guide the children's behavior.

The ratio of staff to children is always sufficient to maintain constant supervision and implement a developmentally appropriate program. Some examples of skills we foster are:

- Problem-solving skills.
- Socialization skills.
- Self-help skills.
- Health and safety.
- Self-expression and creativity.
- Independence.
- Communication and language skills.
- Large and small motor skills.

Child Development Homes

The Child Development Home program is an alternative to center-based care and is often preferred by families because of the small group sizes, the home-like atmosphere and the flexible hours of operation that the center often cannot accommodate. Child Development Homes provide a warm, family setting in which children can participate in developmentally appropriate learning activities, as well as home life experiences. The children are able to build a trusting relationship with a provider who will foster their curiosity and creativity, provide guidance and give them the hugs they need.

Child Development Home providers must be Navy certified. The certification process is provided through the Child and Youth Programs and consists of basic first aid, CPR, child abuse prevention, child development, activity planning, nutrition, business practices and parent/customer relations. In addition to the provider's certification they receive monthly unannounced home inspections by the Child and Youth Program Director or Child Development Home Monitor and must successfully complete all required background screenings. Providers are also required to complete monthly trainings to ensure they provide the best possible care to your children.

School-age Care

The School-age Care program offers before- and after-school care for children ages 5 through 12. Our program is affiliated with the Boys and Girls Clubs of America and 4-H, offering programs such as Power Hour, Project Learn and Smart Moves. During school vacation days and weeks, full-day care is provided at the center. School-age Care is located at the Youth Center, Building 1297. For more information, please call 401-841-2883.

School-age Summer Camp

During the summer months, the School-age Program offers a 10-week summer camp with weekly themes and field trips. Camp programs are available to children ages 5 (who have completed kindergarten) through 12 years of age. Summer camp is supervised by trained youth development professionals, a caring staff that gives special attention to your children.

Teen Center

Building 1297

The Teen Center is located on the second floor of Building 1297, adjacent to the CDC. Open recreation is offered along with scheduled activities and special events. The Teen Center is open 5:30 to 9 p.m. Friday for ages 9 through 18. It is closed Saturday through Thursday and federal holidays. For more information on current programs and events, call 401-841-2043.

USER GUIDE

USER GUIDE – OPERATORS MANUAL — DESK REFERENCE – DO'S & DON'TS – (ETC.)

Military installations have their own sets of rules and regulations that must be followed in order to keep everyone safe, informed and secure.

This new section of our annual directory and guide is for personnel who come to the installation for the day or for the year. The following pages include information on making the most of your stay onboard the base – from rules of the road and access issues, to how to make reservations for a function on Bishop's Rock picnic area. This is your guide.

Hold onto this directory and we will update it again next year, as we are sure that many things will continue to change here at Naval Station Newport, the Navy's Center of Excellence for Officer and Senior Enlisted Education and Training.

Thank you,

GETTING IN

Can I Use That NAVSTA Facility?

Not all ID cards grant access to all NAVSTA properties

There are many great benefits to working and having access to Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport, but sometimes there is confusion about who is entitled to use which facilities.

NAVSTA is open to all individuals officially issued DOD identification cards, but not all individuals are entitled to use all facilities. The following is a list of the types of ID cards issued and what privileges are permitted:

Active Duty Common Access Card (CAC) – issued to active duty members and Reservists (drilling). This card grants access privileges to Naval Health Clinic New England medical, commissary, Navy Exchange (NEX) and all MWR department facilities. These personnel are also entitled to use the Ney Hall galley (only active-duty military and DOD civilians on orders are entitled to eat at the galley).

DD Form 2 ACT (Green Card) – issued to inactive Ready Reserves. Grants access to the commissary; NEX and ALL MWR facilities.

DD Form 1173-1 (Red Card) – issued to Reserve dependents. Grants access to the commissary, NEX and all MWR facilities.

DD Form 1173 (Tan Card) – issued to active duty and active duty Reserve dependents. Grants access to medical, commissary, NEX and all MWR facilities.

DD Form 2RET (Blue/Tan) – issued to all retired military members. Grants access to medical, commissary, NEX and all MWR facilities.

DOD Civilian Employee ID Card – issued to DOD civilian employees. Grants access to all MWR facilities. DOD civilians are not entitled to use the commissary, NEX or Ney Hall Galley (unless on official orders to the base).

DOD Contractor ID Card – similar in appearance to the DOD civilian ID Card but with a green strip. Contractors are entitled to use all Category B and C facilities only (Auto Skills Center, Bowling Center, Harbor Island Conference Center, Leisure Bay Office, Officers' Club, Outdoor Recreation and Rental, and Tennis Courts.) Contractors are not authorized to use the fitness facilities or the NAVSTA Marina and Sailing Center.

DOD Civilian Retired ID Card – similar in appearance to the DOD civilian ID card but does not include a security chip. This card entitles the holder access to the base and the MWR Category B and C facilities only (Auto Skills Center, Bowling Center, Harbor Island Conference Center, Leisure Bay/ITT Office, Officers' Club, Outdoor Recreation and Rental, Marina and Tennis Courts). DOD retirees are not authorized to use the facilities in the John H. Chafee Fitness Center.

DOD civilian retirees will be issued an SF50 documenting their retirement which is necessary for them to be issued this ID card.

Having trouble with your ID Card at the Gates? The technology used in the scanners has changed over the years. If your ID card is 10 years old or more, you may have to get one reissued at the ID office (Building 690) to be able to sync with today's security technology.

GETTING AROUND

Stay Out of NAVSTA Traffic Court!

Each month onboard Naval Station Newport a traffic court is convened at the Region Legal Service Office. Did you know that since you are on federal property and under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Navy you could have your driving privileges revoked for operating a vehicle onboard the Naval Station if you violate traffic rules?

Naval Station Traffic Court convenes monthly with mandatory appearances by individuals, military and civilian – active duty, retired and family members – scheduled to appear before the judge for violations ranging from using hand-held cell phones while driving (Guilty – 6 points); failure to stop at stop signs and no proof of insurance (Guilty – 4 points) and speeding (Guilty – 4 points) to name a few of the more common infractions.

What would your commute look like if you had to leave your vehicle parked at Building 80 or at the Pass & ID lot? Think about it. If you amass a total of 12 points within a 12-month period you will have your driving privileges suspended for a period of not less than six months.

If you drive on the installation without a valid license, registration or insurance you will receive an indefinite suspension.

Naval Station Newport Police Department will continue to patrol, both in marked and unmarked cars, in an effort to keep this installation safe. If you operate a vehicle onboard this installation you are subject to the rules and regulations governing safe vehicle operation.

For more information on penalties go to: NAVSTANPTINST 5100.1 series or check with the NAVSTA Safety Office or Police Department. Drive safe and don't be one of the few that puts the rest of us in danger. Stay out of court.

Attention Boaters/Lobster Fishermen:

RESTRICTED AREAS WITHIN NARRAGANSETT BAY – The Naval Undersea Warfare Center has an operational test range off of the eastern coast of Gould Island that prohibit anchoring, dragging lines or dropping lobster pots.

Naval Station Newport also has restrictions on activities within the areas off of the piers and surrounding Coasters Harbor Island – note current NOAA Charts and refer to: NAVSTANPTINST 5090.28A restricted areas in navigable waters abutting NAVSTA Newport.

The Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act exempts active-duty Sailors stationed in Rhode Island from the motor vehicle excise tax.

Motor vehicle rules and regulations (excessive speed/cellphone use/formation protocol)

- DOD 5525.4 Enforcement of State Traffic Laws on DOD Installations — MAIN points follow:
 - All persons on a military installation shall comply with locally established vehicular and pedestrian traffic rules and regulations.
 - All persons on a military installation shall comply with the vehicular and pedestrian traffic laws of the state in which the installation is located.
- NAVSTANPTINST 5100.1G "Traffic Safety, Regulations & Enforcement"
 - OPERATIONAL REQUIREMENTS –
- All drivers must possess, while operating a motor vehicle, produce and surrender

Cellphone use while driving is prohibited on base

- » Parking unregistered, junked or abandoned vehicles, or uncoupled boats and trailers on base is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the NAVSTA Newport CO on within MWR sales lots/storage lots.

Proper protocol during the playing of 'Colors' onboard military installations

Individuals driving onboard the Naval Station should stop their vehicles upon hearing the first notes of morning or evening colors. Individuals who are not in vehicles, but outdoors and hear the notes being played, should stop and face the music or the nearest flagpole and render the appropriate honors. This time honored courtesy to our national ensign is one of the privileges of serving and working on a federal installation and should be followed by all individuals who do so.

Per U.S. Navy Regulations, Chapter 12, "the ceremonial hoisting and lowering of the national ensign at 8 a.m. and sunset at a naval command ashore or aboard a ship of the Navy not underway shall be known as morning and evening colors, respectively ... "Attention" shall be sounded, followed by the playing of the National Anthem by the band (or onboard NAVSTA we use a loud speaker system mounted on buildings throughout the installation). At morning colors, the ensign shall be started up at the beginning of the music and hoisted smartly to the peak or truck. At evening colors, the ensign shall be started from the peak or truck at the beginning of the music and the lowering so regulated as to be completed at the last note. At the completion of the music, "Carry On" shall be sounded. During colors, vehicles within sight or hearing of the ceremony shall be stopped. Persons riding in such vehicles shall remain seated at attention."

• NAVSTANPTINST 5100.1G "Traffic Safety, Regulations & Enforcement"

– BICYCLES –

- » Bicycles shall not be ridden double unless they are designed and/or equipped to carry more than one person (i.e., a bicycle built for two or one equipped with an approved child or infant seat).
- » Bicycle riders must obey all applicable traffic laws, rules and regulations and always yield to pedestrians.
- » Bicycles are not permitted on jogging trails or sidewalks.
- » Portable headphones, earphones, cellular hands-free devices, iPods or other listening devices that impair recognition of emergency signals, alarms, announcements and the approach of emergency vehicles are prohibited.
- » Bicycle riders shall wear brightly colored reflective clothing between sunset and sunrise.
- » A bicycle helmet approved by the Consumer Product Safety Commission or Snell Memorial Foundation must be worn at all times.

Wear a helmet!

- » Bicycles ridden between sunset and sunrise must utilize steady burning or blinking lighting devices consisting of a white light on the front visible from a distance of at least 500 feet and a red light on the rear that is visible from a distance of at least 600 feet.
- » Children under 12 years of age may operate bicycles in housing areas only.

– JOGGING –

- » Joggers shall use jogging trails and sidewalks where provided.
- » Joggers can wear headphones while running alongside the roads but not near intersections.
- » Jogging on roadways is prohibited during peak traffic periods and at night.
 - If a sidewalk or path is not provided, joggers shall stay to the left side of the roadway, in a single file, facing oncoming traffic.
- » The only authorized jogging areas after sunset are the NAVSTA Newport Jogging Trail, Coasters Harbor Island Physical Readiness Test (PRT) Running Area, Nimitz Field/McCool Track Running Area.
- » Light-colored clothing and shirts shall be worn at all times.
 - At night, or during periods of reduced visibility, personnel are encouraged to wear brightly colored, fluorescent or other reflective garments when running, jogging, walking or traveling near roadways.
- » Joggers shall be cautious of vehicles entering the roadway from cross streets or driveways and yield the right of way to personnel walking.
- » Joggers shall not run on the bridge roadway between Coasters Harbor Island and the Coddington Point area (Toner Bridge). All joggers should use the old Wennachasett Pedestrian Bridge (behind the Newport Chalet).

Motorcycle registration information and Basic Riders Class general information

• NAVSTANPTINST 5100.1G "Traffic Safety, Regulations & Enforcement"

– REGISTRATION –

- » Must possess a valid registration from one of the 50 states, District of Columbia or U.S. Territories and maintain the appropriate level of insurance coverage.
- » Motorcycles are governed by the same access control requirements as all other motor vehicles.

– LICENSE –

- » Must possess a valid motorcycle license.

– MOTORCYCLE SAFETY COURSE –

- » Information concerning applicability, enrollment and training requirements are available by contacting the NAVSTA Safety Office 401-841-2478.

– SAFETY EQUIPMENT –

- » Head Protection. A helmet meeting DOT, Snell Memorial Foundation certification or host nation certification shall be worn and properly fastened under the chin. Fake or novelty helmets are prohibited – note Navy Regulations require active-duty personnel always wear helmets while operating motorcycles – even in states where the operator is allowed the option of going without.
- » Eye Protection. Protective eye devices designed for motorcycle operators (impact or shatter resistant safety glasses, goggles, wraparound glasses sealing the eye, or face shield properly attached to the helmet) shall be properly worn. A windshield or standard sunglasses or standard eye wear alone are not proper eye protection

Motorcycle jackets constructed of abrasion resistant materials such as leather, kevlar and/or cordura, and containing impact absorbing padding are highly recommended. To enhance the ability of other vehicle operators to see and avoid motorcyclists, outer garments constructed of brightly colored and reflective materials are highly recommended during daylight hours. Reflective outer garments or vest shall be worn during nighttime hours.

GETTING IT DONE

School Liaison Officer & Services

Office: Building 1376

Phone: 401-841-7126

Email: pamela.martin@navy.mil

Do you have school-aged children?

Then, the School Liaison Officer (SLO) is looking for you.

The Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport installation SLO serves as the installation subject matter expert for youth education, transition, kindergarten through grade 12 and deployment issues. The SLO's role includes seven core duties which include:

- Communication (Installation/Community/School).
- School Transition Services.
- Special Education System Navigation.
- Deployment Support.
- Partnerships in Education.
- Home School Linkage and Support.
- Post-Secondary Presentation.

Hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Special hours are available by appointment.

If you are a military family with school-age children, moving can be complicated by the "unknown factors" related to the schools in the area of your new duty station.

In order to prepare for a smooth transition, it is essential that you plan ahead and gather the necessary information about the schools your children will be attending during the next academic year before you arrive at your new home.

Here at Naval Station Newport, Pamela Martin, NAVSTA SLO, is available to help you navigate the local educational system as you PCS in, as well as helping you prepare for your next move by putting you in contact with the SLO at your new duty station.

Martin can be reached at 401-841-7126 or by email at pamela.martin@navy.mil. Her office is at the John F. Kennedy Child Development Center in Building 1376 (1376 Bushnell St.), right outside Gate 17.

Rental Lease Review – Soldier/Sailor Civil Relief Act

The Housing Office in Building 690 is available to review your off-base (non-PPV) rental lease before you sign it. A new Rhode Island law now exempts military members from a month rent penalty in their lease contracts if they receive orders for deployment or PSC before the end of the lease period.

NAVSTA Housing can verify if you are adequately covered and if not, can assist you with having your landlord include the military clause in your rental agreement. Do yourself a favor and take the time before you sign. Call 401-841-4545 or 401-841-2232 for more information.

Post Office (U.S. Post Office)

The U.S. Post Office onboard Naval Station Newport is open 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday and closed Sunday. Postal boxes are available to military personnel, their family members and civilian personnel who work on the base. These boxes are accessible 24/7. The post office can be reached by calling 401-851-6972.

Vehicle Registration Tax Information

The Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act exempts non-Rhode Island residents, on active duty in Rhode Island, from motor vehicle excise tax. Any non-Rhode Island resident considering getting a Rhode Island license plate, or who has already obtained a Rhode Island license plate, should file an application with their town assessors' office (if you live on base, file in Newport).

This exempts the military person, not their dependents, from paying vehicle tax. It does not exempt a vehicle owned by a leasing company and leased to a military person. It is only in force for the period you are permanently assigned to Naval Station Newport.

Once departing Rhode Island, and after a reasonable time (30 days), it is assumed you have decided to keep the registration and accept the responsibility of paying the tax. Plates and registration cards must be returned to the Rhode Island DMV, 100 Main St., Pawtucket, R.I. 02860.

You should request a cancellation receipt (TR-3) and mail a copy of that receipt to the RI Town you resided in. For more information go to: www.dmv.ri.gov and remember to ask the registry about this exemption.

Veterinary Clinic

The U.S. Army Newport Veterinary Clinic, in Building 1255 Whipple Street next to Leisure Bay, is open 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. one Saturday a month. from Pets are seen by appointment only. Call 401-841-3994 to schedule an appointment or for information.

Only active-duty military personnel, their dependents, Reservists, members of the National Guard and retired military personnel are authorized to use the Veterinary Clinic.

The Newport Veterinary Clinic offers wellness exams, minor sick call exams, routine vaccinations, pet supplies, including flea and tick prevention, and Health Certificate preparation and exams.
